Up to their Dopplers in watches and warnings

The first major winter storm of the season swept out of the Rockies and across the Great Lakes this week, turning the colors of autumn from bright orange and red to a solid shade of white.

This was a storm of historic proportions, a real whopper, that dropped several feet of snow, generated wild gusts of wind and spit out a line of severe thunderstorms.

National Weather Service (NWS) meteorologists from Scottsbluff, Nebraska to Traverse City, Michigan were up to their Doppler radars in watches and warnings as the storm relentlessly pushed toward the east.

The squall prompted dozens of alerts, a winter storm watch in North Dakota, a snow advisory in Minnesota, a blowing snow advisory in Michigan and a tornado watch in Kansas.

Lots of advisories, but what do they really mean? What's the difference between a snow advisory and a blowing snow advisory? Isn't there a better way to warn people of coming storms, to give folks a clearer picture of what's coming their way?

By Mike Lyons

That's exactly what Joe Sullivan was wondering.

Joe is a meteorologist with the NWS in Cheyenne, Wyoming. Last October, another whopper of a storm pummeled Wyoming and Nebraska with thick snow and gale force winds.

As the storm raged, the weather service issued a series of advisories, from a winter storm watch to a blizzard warning. Despite all the advisories, hundreds of motorists were stranded on two interstate highways.

"It just really made us look like we didn't know what we were doing," said Joe. "We were trying to do it in black and white, when really there was a lot of gray there."

So, Joe decided to do something about it. He created a new winter storm warning system patterned after hurricane and tornado advisories.

Instead of a series of confusing watches and warnings, Joe developed a system that rates the severity of storms on a one to five scale, similar to the Saffir/Simpson Hurricane Scale and the Fujita Tornado Intensity Scale.

Joe's severity index classifies winter weather into five categories: minor inconvenience; inconvenience; significant inconvenience; potentially life-threatening; and life-threatening. The first three categories correspond to an advisory, the final two to a warning.

Joe thinks the new system will make it easier for road clearing crews, ambulance drivers and emergency personnel to plan ahead. And it should make it much clearer to anyone planning a trip before a coming storm.

After all, if a blowing snow advisory is issued for central Wyoming, chances are most people will just head on down the highway. But, if a category four storm is rampaging across the state, potential travelers might think twice before venturing out.

Joe's system is being tested this winter in parts of Wyoming and Nebraska. The weather service will review the system this spring. It could be refined, put through another series of tests or completely abandoned.

Joe hopes his idea will work. And so do emergency managers in Nebraska. "Everybody knows what a category five hurricane is," said Sherry Blahna of Scottsbluff. "You would only assume that a category five winter storm would be pretty severe."

Western PBC Farm Bureau recognized for program excellence

Western Palm Beach County Farm Bureau was recognized for excellence during the Florida Farm Bureau Federation's 1998 annual meeting held in Tampa Oct. 23-26.

The county Farm Bureau received nine Gold Stars for its activities during 1998.

Florida Farm Bureau President Carl B. Loop, Jr. presented Western Palm Beach County Farm Bureau State Director and Local Director Rick Roth with a Gold Star Award recognizing superior performance in the following areas: Ag in the Classroom; Ag Policy; FAMA; Information; Land Use; Legislative Organization; Rural Urban; and Women.

"This year's Gold Star Program was especially meaningful because of the large number of volunteer farmers, and ranchers who contributed their time and expertise to the program activities," said Dennis Emerson, FFBF Director of Field Services. "The Gold Star Program highlights the opportunities for service to the industry available to Farm Bureau members at the county level. Success depends on leadership, initiative and service."

The following Resolution was sponsored by the Western PBC Farm Bureau and adopted by the Florida Farm Bureau at the meeting as well. This statement reflects the official position of the Florida Farm Bureau on school choice and student scholarships:

"We believe that all children in the state are deserving of the best education available; therefore, public dollars that have been assured for education of each child in the state should be treated as a scholarship that will follow the child to the school chosen by the family - whether it be public, private or parochial school."

Western Palm Beach County Farm Bureau is affiliated with the Florida Farm Bureau Federation, which has more than 139,000 member families statewide. Florida Farm Bureau is the state's largest general interest agriculture organization.

Major tax increases for Everglades restoration a non-starter

The people of south Florida are committed to protecting and restoring the Everglades, but are opposed to big tax and/or water rate hikes, according to a new poll released Nov. 10.

According to a survey conducted for Florida CSE by Mason-Dixon Political Media Research, if south Florida residents have their way, the $8 billion Everglades "Re-Study" plan concocted by federal and state bureaucrats would be dead on arrival. Why?

"The main reason," says Slade O'Brien, Florida CSE Director, "is because it costs taxpayers too much." According to the prestigious economic forecasting group, WEA Strategic Consulting, the Re-Study will cost every south Florida household over $120 per year. According to the Mason-Dixon voter survey, just 9.5 percent of south Florida voters are willing to pay such a price.

Another reason O'Brien cites is that the "Re-Study" puts people last. It does away with the present water management system that people rely on to live and gives it to the Everglades, forcing them to rely on expensive, unproven technology for their water needs. "As described in the South Florida Water Management District and the Army Corps of Engineers' draft feasibility study, less than 10 percent of the Re-Study budget is for the benefit of people. However, according to the survey, 49 percent of the respondents said that meeting the water needs of people should be the first priority, 32 percent said restoring the Everglades, and 16 percent cited flood control. By a two-to-one margin, voters said that water concerns of people should be the first priority, yet over 90 percent of Re-Study spending is dedicated for environmental concerns.

The survey also demonstrates that south Floridians favor cheaper alternatives for waste storage, a major Re-Study component, even if it requires environmental trade-offs. By a two-to-one margin, voters favored storing more water in Lake Okechobee and existing water conservation and storage areas. And 84 percent of voters believe the government should use land it already owns for water storage before spending millions on buying more private land.

"The survey clearly shows that the vast majority of south Floridians do not support major tax hikes for Everglades restoration, especially where the water they depend on is at stake," said O'Brien.

Belle Glade needs help

"Why is it that Belle Glade is not growing? Do you know when it comes to growth and having things, Clewiston has passed Belle Glade?"

All the "big wigs" who lived or supposedly lived in Belle Glade and take care of Belle Glade have all moved to Wellington and the Acreage, therefore they no longer care about Belle Glade.

Please help us build Belle Glade up. Give us some activities in the area and please, clean downtown Fifth Street. Just take a bulldozer and tear down everything and put us up a nice theatre and other things.

Thank you."

Where's the praise?

"I'm calling to say that a while back someone called into The Sun to complain about Norman's Drive-Thru. I was wondering where those people are now since Norman's has reversed the entrance and the exitway. At least they could call and say 'thank you' to Norman's and to everyone who made that possible."

Thank you."

Editor's note: Norman's is to be commended for their renovations and efforts to fix a possibly dangerous situation. With the new arrangement cars are no longer backed up on Avenue E waiting to turn into the drive-thru.

Letters to the Editor

Commissioner Smith expresses gratitude for help at Bayfest

Dear Editor:

This letter is written to express my sincere appreciation for the overwhelming support received from individuals and organizations throughout the Glades area and beyond as chairperson for the third annual Crossroads Cultural Festival, Bayfest '98.

According to individuals I have had an opportunity to speak with, this year's festival has been the best yet. I am sure you have heard the same. Committee members and I put in countless hours preparing for this year's event.

Visitors to the festival continue to express their ultimate enjoyment of the festivities, especially the live entertainment. Our closing act, The R & B Connection, gave an exceptional performance and was one of this year's favorite groups. The Gospel Explosion was also a crowd pleaser and featured two members that I am proud to say are products of South Bay.

It is such a delight to see visions become a reality. Bayfest was born in 1996 after an appeal was made before the South Bay City Commission. The city embraced the idea of co-sponsoring what has become the premier multi-cultural event of the Glades. The concept of developing and organizing an annual festival would not be possible, of course, without those who graciously volunteer their time and energy to this cause.

As founder of Bayfest, I further envision great things happening within our fabulous city. Perhaps by the year 2000, the festival would have outgrown its present location—imagine being able to hold events like Bayfest in a park which included a large amphitheater in the City of South Bay. Isn't that an exciting idea? Just as the city's theme suggests, working together, this dream can be realized. Should you be interested in being a part of this effort, please contact me. Volunteers are always needed.

Again, thanks to all of you who made an effort to be a part of the Bayfest experience. Your continued involvement and participation is encouraged. I look forward to working with you next year.

God Bless,
Commissioner Milranda Smith
Founder/Chairperson
Bayfest '98

Calusa Indian site reveals state may face more hurricanes

By Cathy Keen

University of Florida News

A stormy past warns that Florida may be in store for more destructive hurricanes if scientists are right about the threat of global warming, new University of Florida research suggests.

Nearly 1,700 years ago, devastating tempests associated with sea-level rise destroyed villages of the Calusa Indians on the southwest Florida coast, near present-day Fort Myers, forcing the native fishermen to move inland to relative safety, said UF anthropologist Karen Walker.

Ms. Walker's clues to storms, sea-level rise and migration include village remains buried by storm-surge sediment, and other village deposits found at higher elevations than where they should be. In addition, the modest shells and fish bones left behind by the Indians, she said, show ecological correlations between rising sea levels and global warming periods discussed in the historical record of ancient Europe.

"As we enter into a modern warming period, which seems to be the case, Florida is likely to experience flooded shorelines and an increase of intense storms," Ms. Walker said. "I think that it's not a coincidence that there were major storms recorded at some of the archaeological sites that I study and that those storms happened during the warm Roman Optimum period. I have the storms closely dated to the fourth century AD."

Global warming is not new, said Ms. Walker, explaining that a variety of evidence points to a global episode of warming, dubbed the Roman Optimum, which occurred roughly from 200 B.C. and about A.D. 400, and a later episode, the Medieval Optimum, which took place from about A.D. 800 to A.D. 1200. A cooling episode named the Vandal Minimum occurred roughly between the two warmings.

"By studying many archaeological deposits from many locations I see a picture showing that sea-level fluctuations in Florida correlate to these climate fluctuations known from European history," she said.

Current global warming predictions call for at least a 50-centimeter rise in today's sea level over the next century, which would flood large portions of Florida's low-lying coastal lands, she said.

Ms. Walker did her research over the past 10 years on Pine Island, St. John's Island and other smaller islands. To document rising and falling waters, she studied radiocarbon dates, shells and fish bones, inundation deposits, elevations and other evidence.

Among the evidence, mollusk shells indicate changes in water salinity patterns, with more salty waters during sea-level rises and decreased salinity during lowerings, she said.

A combination of storm and sea-level rise deposits overlie earlier village layers and underlie later village layers. Ms. Walker believes changes in patterns of the Indians' villages also reflect climate and sea-level change. During the Roman warming and sea-level rise, people moved their homes inland to higher ground. When climate cooled and sea level dropped, villages were built along the new, lower shoreline.

But by A.D. 800, when the Medieval warming began and sea level rose, the Calusa built massive shell mounds, suggesting they tried to get above the flood threat.

"There may be other, cultural reasons why they started living on top of these huge shell mounds, but I think it's too much of a coincidence that it happens at this same time," she said.

Although modern pollution, deforestation, ozone depletion and other human-related activity are likely to result in more extreme changes for today's climate, Ms. Walker says a growing number of researchers argue that earlier warming trends also were in part human-induced. The Roman Optimum warming, for example, correlates with the Romans' clearing of vast forests as they expanded their empire into northern Europe, and with African deforestation during the Iron Age, situations not unlike the practice of modern populations destroying tropical forests, she said.

University of Florida cyberbugs teach children about entomology

By Cindy Spence

If you think you've got bugs in your computer, try logging in to the University of Florida's 4-H Bug Club. With a few keystrokes, bugs are virtually coming at you from the computer screen. Virtual is the key word here, because these are cyberbugs for a cyberclub.

Ragmaster John Zenger, a professor in UF's Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences, says kids, bugs and cyberspace make a good mix.

"This appeals to today's youth, who are used to multimedia glitz and color," Prof. Zenger said. "More and more, children have access to the World Wide Web, and can join online activities.

"And kids like bugs," Prof. Zenger adds. "They only develop an aversion to insects after exposure to grown-ups' 'icky bugs' prejudices."

The club is a little different for the 4-H program. "Meetings" are conducted via the Internet and kids can get into the clubhouse via any computer with online capability. On the agenda: learning.

"Insects are an important part of the ecosystem and the natural environment," Prof. Zenger said, "insects impact us in numerous ways, far more than you might imagine: the food we eat, clothes we wear, whether we have a picnic."

The Bug Club started as a way to reach children throughout the state who might be interested in entomology. It's also a way to distribute educational materials to youths and teachers who can use them in the classroom.

The club has expanded to 50 members since it began in the spring. Despite national interest, membership currently is limited to children in Florida so that UF faculty and graduate students can interact with them personally.

SAFEHARBOR

Grassy Waters 10th Anniversary Features "ALL DAY GOSPEL SINGIN' ON THE LAKE"

Do you love that "good old Gospel Music"? Then Saturday, November 14 is your day to join us from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the lakefront for the annual Grassy Waters Festival. A number of local businesses, individuals and churches are sponsoring the groups which will be featured in addition to our wonderful local talent. Safe Harbor from Piedmont, S.C. is one of the groups pictured above. Their unique vocal blend and uncanny sense of harmony and anointed interpretation of song will remind you of the great gospel groups of old. Come and hear their rendition of new and old songs that will bring back memories and have you toe tapping and hand clapping to the music. Another headliner for the day are The Booth Brothers who are fast becoming a favorite on the list of gospel singing groups. Coming to us from Temple Terrace, Florida (just outside of Tampa), they are comprised of a father, Ron, Sr., and two sons. Their love of the Lord is very evident as they travel the Southeastern United States singing and sharing His word at Gospel Sings, Revivals, Festivals and Church Concerts. They currently have the number 23 song on the Southern Gospel Top 80 chart, "Love Was in the Room". Last but certainly not least, we have the Trust Quartet from Okkeehobee joining us for the day. A favorite of local folks, this group has appeared and been warmly received at the Pahokee Church of the Nazarene and other nearby venues. They participate with the Booth Brothers in many concerts throughout the South and enjoy sharing the love of the Lord with their music. Make your plans now to join us for the entire day at the 1998 Grassy Waters Festival. It's not every day that such a wonderful FREE concert is offered. There is no admission to the concert or the festival and there are activities, food, and fun for every age group. If you would like to contribute to the Entertainment Committee budget for these groups, please call (561) 924-5579 or make your contribution the day of the festival.

"Little House" Author Returns to Florida

Laura Ingalls Wilder, author of an eight-volume children's novel beginning with Little House in the Big Woods, is often associated with Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, South Dakota, Kansas, and Missouri, all places she lived and wrote about in her world-famous books. She even wrote one of her books, Farmer Boy, about upstate New York, where her husband Almanzo had lived before his family moved West.

Laura never wrote about the place she lived in 1991-92 with Almanzo and their little daughter Rose. Rose grew up to write an O'Henry Prize-winning short story called "Innocence" in 1922, using memories of a "miserable, awful place called Florida."

Betty Jean Steinhouser is well-known for her one-woman show on Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, another author who moved to Florida from the North, but had a totally different reaction to Cross Creek than Laura Ingalls Wilder did to Westville. Steinhouser's research on each author has convinced her, she says, that "Rawlings and Wilder were nothing alike in their approach to their new Florida neighbors. Marjorie got right into the mix, going along with things even when they weren't quite legal. Laura stood back, partly because she had a young child to look after. She went the rest of her life, hardly mentioning that she had once lived in the Sunshine State, because she didn't like to talk about unpleasant things."

Steinhouser, who has been touring full-time since 1988 with her Chautauqua about Rawlings, Willa Cather, Gertrude Stein, Flannery O'Connor and Sarah Orne Jewett, added Mrs. Wilder to her repertoire in 1997. She noted that

"Wilder was well into her sixties by the time she published her first LITTLE HOUSE book. I play her in her eighties, after all her books are written and her husband has died. As a widow, she has quite a perspective on the world, including 64 years of marriage to the same man, raising a daughter who became a famous writer and a Communist, and living sanely in an insane world. Laura is balm to an angst-ridden society."

Steinhouser usually spends her winters in Florida, living since 1990 in St. Augustine. In an interview from Tucson, Arizona, where she was resting before beginning the long drive South, she noted that her November tour for the Florida Humanities Council will include the three ladies she calls "Yankee Characters in Florida." Wilder and Rawlings lived in the Panhandle and Central Florida, respectively, while Sarah Orne Jewett spent several winters from 1888-1896 on the Atlantic Coast, growing especially fond of St. Augustine, where Jewett and her New England friends stayed at Henry Flagler's fine resorts and got written up the Tatler. St. Augustine's society rag of the day.

Steinhouser notes that "Ms.

Rawlings and Miss Jewett both fit in and loved Florida, and they both wrote copiously of their experiences here. Perhaps if Mrs. Wilder could have written out her troubles, she would have fared better. And we might have another volume of her series, say, Little Trailer House in the Panhandle."

MEET LAURA INGALLS WILDER can be seen in several Florida towns this winter, beginning in November in Pahokee, Okeechobee, Tallahassee, and Crawfordville. For a complete listing of dates, times and places, contact David Reddy at the Florida Humanities Council, (813) 272-3473, ext. 15. All programs are free and open to the public. Children should be accompanied by an adult.

Laura Ingalls Wilder Portrayal

PAHOKEE - Noted actress and humanities scholar Betty Jean Steinhouser will present a dramatic portrayal of Little House on the Prairie author Laura Ingalls Wilder at the Prince Theater, Pahokee, on Friday, Nov. 13, at 7 P.M. The program, funded by the Florida Humanities Council, is free and open to the public. The local sponsor is the City of Pahokee. For more information, call Kenneth Schenck, City Manager, at (561) 924-5534.

After her performance, Steinhouser will answer questions, both in her role as Laura and as a scholar. Audience members are urged to bring their favorite lines from Little House or other Wilder works to share during discussion.

The Florida Humanities Council (FHC) is a non-profit organization funded by private donations, the National Endowment for the Humanities, and Florida's Department of State, Division of Cultural Affairs.

To find out more, contact FHC at 1725 1/2 East Seventh Avenue, Tampa, FL 33605, (813) 272-3473 or visit the web site at www.flahum.org.

Julian Branch Festival of Lights news

PAHOKEE - Volunteers are working feverishly to prepare for Pahokee Main Street's second annual "Light Up" campaign for the holidays. "We are honored to have the name of Julian Branch for his important Christmas project," said Shirley Jarriel, Pahokee Main Street Coordinator.

"His hard work was a vital part of the success of our first effort at making Pahokee glow for the holidays. We was anxious to celebrate Jesus' birth in a special way. Now we want to carry it on in his memory especially with the recent economic losses in our community."

The Pahokee Youth Development Center is doing the woodworking necessary for cutouts of Christmas figures which will be placed through out the City. These are being painted in bright Christmas colors by the children of Saint Mary's Catholic Church, School of Choice, Canal Point Elementary, and Pahokee Elementary. In addition, the young people of the Pahokee recreation department are making a sleigh and reindeer for the top of the dike plus beautiful banners that will be displayed during the holiday season. A number of ladies groups under the direction of Elsie Singletary are ready to place bulbs in the decorations which will be attached to power poles.

"We are very proud that this is a community effort and we want to thank everyone who is taking part. This is a very big project and we can use all the help we can get," said Barbara Branch, Festival Co-Chair.

Donations to the project have now exceeded $30,000. Donors will be recognized at a later date with a special celebration. "These new decorations are a gift to the City of Pahokee and all Glades residents. Everyone is invited to come and enjoy the beautiful lights of Christmas which will be up and glowing brightly for the annual Christmas parade on Monday night, December 7," said Mrs. Jarriel.

ROMERO

Navy Seaman Rafael A. Romero, son of Rafael and Christina A. Romero of 1017 N.W. 32nd Street, Belle Glade, Fla., is one of more than 380,000 active duty sailors celebrating the Navy's 223rd birthday this month. Romero is currently halfway through a six-month deployment to the Mediterranean Sea and Arabian Gulf aboard the amphibious assault ship USS Saipan, home ported in Norfolk, Va.

The Navy was created by the Continental Congress on Oct. 13, 1775, after George Washington appealed for its formation. Since then, the Navy has been involved in all our nation's conflicts, from the Revolutionary War to Desert Storm, and sailors continue to serve the nation today, on ships and at bases around the world.

On Oct. 13 every year, Sailors mark the date as a time for ceremony and reflection on the deeds of the men and women who served before and who have given today's sailors their legacy of honor, courage and commitment.

Romero's ship presents a formidable U.S. presence which can provide a rapid response in times of crisis. Sailors aboard USS Saipan can support a variety of missions from amphibious assaults to providing humanitarian aid.

The 1995 graduate of Glades Central High School joined the Navy in July 1997.

Sorority News

XI BETA TAU

Pahokee Xi Beta Tau Sorority held their monthly meeting on Thursday, Nov. 5, at the home of Mirtha Grayson.

Plans were made for a children's booth at the Grassys Waters Festival. Members cut and pasted paper fish to be colored by the children and then strung on poles.

Linda Stanley presented an interesting National Geographic video on "Sea Creatures" and delicious refreshments were served by Jo Hatton.

Members attending were: Mirtha Graydon, Jo Hatton, Kay Korbly, JoAnn Law, Onaida Milliron, Maria Mills, Tina Provencale, Amy Schneck, Linda Stanley and Carlene Walker.

If you have any questions please call Amy, 924-9211.

XI IOTA ALPHA

"The Xi Iota Alpha chapter of Beta Sigma Phi has continued to have a busy fall schedule. On September 26 members, husbands, and friends gathered at Dr. Brent and Leigh Woodham's new home for a cookout with a tropical flair. After a delicious dinner, everyone enjoyed spirited conversation and swimming.

"The second business meeting of the year was held at Rosemary Buchanan's on Tuesday, October 6. Among other things, the October social was planned for Halloween. After the meeting was adjourned, Rosemary presented her program "The Business of Sorority." She reminded members that they were not just a group of friends gathered for conversation and entertainment but also a chapter guided by an organizational structure and rules. She also pointed out some material and features in the Book of Beta Sigma Phi and in The Torch, the sorority's international monthly magazine.

"On Halloween, as planned, members, their families and guests, most in costume, celebrated the holiday at the home of Brian and Vickie Boyd who had decorated their home and tarpit extensively, complete with scary music. Trick or treaters found a local version of Fright Night awaiting them, and they had to brave the "horrors" to earn their candy!

"With November came the regular business meeting again, this time held at Micah Corbin's. Discussion centered on planning social activities during a particularly busy time of year. The chapter decided to have two different Girls-On-The-Town trips to Sawgrass Mills so everyone could participate, either on the 20th or 21st.

Tentative plans were also settled for various Christmas festivities.

Later, members and guests were presented with an introduction to the Winners Circle discount travel club and home investment business. Then, enjoying refreshments, members thanked their secret sisters and looked forward to the holiday season.

"Walkway of Memories" being planned

Pahokee Main Street has begun a project to raise funds to assist with the restoration of the Old Pahokee High School building.

A "Walkway of Memories" is being planned with personalized paver bricks which may be purchased and imprinted with your name or the name of your family member, who may be a Pahokee High School alumni or you can put any message of your choice on the brick for a donation of only $50.

There are other levels of giving which are described in a new brochure.

Further information and a brochure may be obtained by calling (561) 924-6332.

"We would especially like to hear from former students, families of students, teachers, and administration of Pahokee High School who have information on their classmates.

A brochure will be mailed to everyone for whom we have an address.

"Your involvement is welcome!" said Pahokee Main Street Coordinator Shirley Jarriel.

A drawing of the proposed walkway and patio will be available soon.

The fourth grade Structure of Intelligence (S.O.I.) play was a huge success. It was a very good learning experience for the other fourth grade classes because it taught them a very good lesson. For the first nine weeks all fourth grade classes studied about the environment. Then we found a play called "The Nightingale" which taught them a very good lesson-not to cage a wild creature.

Cat Talk from Gove Elementary School

Take Our Parents to School Week

Take our parents to school week gives parents an opportunity to share their child's educational experience by coming into the classroom and observing their child in "the real world of school." We are inviting parents to come to school on Thursday, November 19, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon to celebrate this great experience.

Magnet Applications

If you have a child entering Kindergarten in the fall, and you are interested in him/her attending Gove Elementary as a Magnet student, we invite you to call the school at 993-4068 to get a tour of the school and pick up your application.

Gove Elementary is an International Studies Magnet that specializes in dual language. Our goal is to create an environment that promotes equality and positive cross cultural attitudes while students become bilingual and biliterate.

National Children's Book Week

November 16-20 is National Children's Book Week. In observance of this special week we are having this year's first RIF Distribution Wednesday, November 18. Students will choose a book to add to their home library. At all our RIF Distributions students are allowed to pick any book they want from our RIF Collection. We hope you will share this book with your children. Remember, you can help your child become a better reader by reading to them everyday. If you can help us with our RIF Distribution, please call Randy Mann at 993-4098.

grees of damage in every crop," said Mr. Hamilton. The company also grows lettuce, celery, sweet corn and sugarcane. Duda is the biggest supplier of radishes in the nation and already the price has spiked in the marketplace.

Mr. Hamilton said Duda still has radishes in storage and expects to be able to provide for their customers for a couple more weeks.

Other farmers suffered damage to their corn crop from high winds and water as well as loss of leafy vegetables. Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative spokesperson Barbara Miedema said, the mill has been down since last Thursday night when they ground the last of the cane that had been harvested before the storm.

She said the mill will be back in production by today. "We haven't been able to quantify the damage yet," she said.

Shantell Maycock, 22, told police Braddy became enraged Friday when she told him she did not want a relationship with him. She said he forced her and her daughter to get into his car and drove them north on U.S. 27. Police say he severely beat Shantell and dumped her along U.S. 27.

He then continued north on U.S. 27 with Quatisha still in the car.

Shantell was taken to Glades General Hospital on Saturday after a motorist found her walking along U.S. 27. Braddy told police he later dropped the young girl off near a cane field some time after midnight on Friday.

A man-hunt was organized on Sunday consisting of Miami-Dade and Palm Beach County officers as well as three helicopters, K-9 dogs and volunteers. Police searched cane fields and canals, but were unable to find the girl.

The two fishermen found Quatisha's body on Monday morning and alerted police.

Maycock is charged with kidnapping, burglary, attempted first-degree murder and attempted escape.

Is good nutrition and health your cup of tea?

We heat it to make it hot, then put ice in it to make it cold. We put lemon in it to make it sour, then put sugar in it to make it sweet. However you like tea, Southerners drink a lot of it.

There's good news. It turns out that all that iced tea we drink is good for us.

According to an article in the August 1998 issue of Prevention Magazine, tea—hot or iced, sweet or unsweetened—contains plenty of antioxidants.

Antioxidants, you may recall, are substances that help the body rid itself of those pesky free radicals.

Tea also contains flavonoids that may stop blood platelets from forming blood clots.

According to the University of Pennsylvania Cancer Center's research, in addition to polyphenols—which are powerful antioxidants, tea contains manganese, potassium, niacin, folic acid and vitamin C. Manganese is needed for bone growth and for the body's development. Potassium enables nerves and muscles to function properly and helps regulate fluid levels within the cells. Folic acid is used by the body during cell division. (Women who plan to become pregnant are encouraged to get plenty of folic acid to help avoid certain birth defects.)

By Katrina Elksen, Contributing Editor

Vitamin C helps the immune system stay healthy.

Research has also shown that drinking tea during or after a meal can help aid digestion.

In other words, drinking a glass of iced tea every day could help you prevent heart disease and cancer.

When you think about it, it should not be surprising that tea is a healthy food. It's a broth made from plant leaves, so it can be considered a type of vegetable.

There are a few things to remember. First: All things in moderation. No one is suggesting that anyone start guzzling the beverage nonstop.

Second, it has to be real tea. Herbal teas do not count, although they may have other beneficial properties. Third, tea cannot take the place of other foods containing antioxidants. You still need to eat your broccoli, carrots, etc. Tea does not contain the vitamins that fresh fruits and vegetables do.

By the way, if you are concerned about caffeine, decaffeinated tea contains the same level of antioxidants as regular tea.

Of course, drinking iced tea should not take the place of drinking at least eight glasses of water every day. Your body needs water to rehydrate itself and to flush out any waste products and toxins. Beverages which contain caffeine (such as coffee and sodas) do not provide the same benefits. Caffeine is a diuretic, so instead of hydrating your body, drinking a beverage with caffeine can cause it to dehydrate.

And as always, check with your doctor before making any change in your diet, especially if you are on any type of medication.

Prescription drugs may affect older patients' dental health

Prescription drugs can adversely affect senior citizens' dental health. During Senior Dental Health Awareness Week, Nov. 16-20, the Florida Dental Association focuses on dental health concerns of older patients. Governor Lawton Chiles recently proclaimed Senior Dental Awareness Week to promote good dental health among Florida residents who are older than 65 (about 18% percent of Florida's population).

"Older patients and medically compromised patients should stay well informed about unwanted side effects that some prescription drugs may have on dental health," said Dr. Gerald Cioffi, an FDA official and oral medicine expert. "Senior Dental Health Awareness Week is an excellent chance to educate these patients, and their caregivers, about the problems that can be associated with dental health and some prescription drugs."

Certain prescription medicines can cause older patients to experience gum swelling, overgrowth or inflammation; dry mouth, excess plaque; and fungal infection. More than 400 drugs, including calcium channel blockers for high blood pressure and heart disease, anti-epilepsy and some amphetamines, have been linked with poor dental health.

Procordia, Cardizem and Dilantin may potentially cause problems with older patients' dental health.

If you take medication, follow these rules:

1. When your dentist asks for your medical history, provide complete, up-to-date information.
2. Tell your dentist if you've been hospitalized recently, had surgery or have been ill.
3. Let your dentist know the names, doses and frequency of your medications, prescription and over-the-counter, along with the name of your physician.
4. Advise your dentist of any health or medication changes

Elderly African Americans found to underutilize flu shots

Analysis of Medicare claims data finds that African Americans are given flu shots at half the rate as whites. Only 20% of African American Medicare beneficiaries in Florida got a flu shot in 1996, the most recent year for which figures are available. That's less than half the state's average for white recipients, which was 47%.

Influenza, and the pneumonia it causes, are responsible for 10,000 to 40,000 deaths a year, 80% of which are in the elderly. The U.S. Public Health Service recommends that every American over the age of 65 years should get a flu shot every year, in October or November.

"Medicare will pay for a flu shot each year, but not everyone knows this," says Luis Miranda, M.D., M.P.H., of Florida Medical Quality Assurance, Inc. in Tampa. FMAQAI is the Medicare Peer Review Organization (PRO) in Florida, overseeing the quality of health care for Medicare in the state.

"Medicare Part B will pay 100% for a flu shot every year, no matter where you get it, as long as the health care provider agrees not to charge the beneficiary more than Medicare pays."

"Flu shots do not contain a live virus, so they cannot cause the flu," according to Tamara Kieera of the CDC's National Immunization Program. Most people experience little or no reaction to the vaccination. One in four people might have a tender area where the shot was delivered.

For the locations to get a flu shot, call the American Lung Association at 800-

LUNG-USA.

For more information about the flu and pneumonia vaccines, call the Florida Flu Fighters at 800-844-0795. Information is available in both English and Spanish.

FROM LAST WEEK

WINSTON CUP SERIES

What else could be expected from Jeff Gordon?

Already the Winston Cup champion, the 27-year-old Gordon dusted Dale Jarrett's Ford in the final laps of the NAPA 500, delivering the NASCAR manufacturer's championship to Chevrolet by the 10 car lengths that separated the two cars.

In so doing, Gordon equaled the 13 victories won by Richard Petty in 1975, the "modern era" record.

No other driver has ever won 10 or more victories three years in a row.

The NAPA 500 was delayed 4 hours, 1 minute, 23 seconds in one installment, and 7 hours, 28 minutes altogether. Empires rose and fell. Fashions changed. By the time another green-flag lap was run, it was 9:40 p.m.

Ultimately only 221 of the scheduled 328 laps were completed as officials brought an end to the proceedings shortly after 11 p.m.

BUSCH GRAND NATIONAL

Mark Martin passed Dale Earnhardt Jr. late in the going, winning the Stihl 300 at Atlanta Motor Speedway.

It was the Ford driver's second BGN victory of the season. Earnhardt all but wrapped up the series championship, however, with his runner-up finish.

CRAFTSMAN TRUCK SERIES

In the end, a victory by Jack Sprague at Las Vegas Motor Speedway was not enough.

That's because Ron Hornaday finished second, thus enabling him to hold off Sprague in the SuperTrucks championship race.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

Brett Bodine vs. Dave Marcis

Before the long rain delay, when the cars were circling under caution, Marcis remained on the track when others pitted in order to collect the five bonus points associated with leading a lap.

So did Bodine, who criticized Marcis for not pitting (and allowing others to pick up the bonus) after he had led his lap.

NASCAR This Week writer Monte Dutton gives his opinion: "Brett's comments seemed a little testy, leading under caution anyway? It's a bone thrown to the tail-enders, nothing more."

especially in light of the fact that he did get to lead a lap.

"Why does a driver deserve bonus points for leading under caution anyway? It's a bone thrown to the tail-enders, nothing more."

Jeff Burton

John Clark/NASCAR This Week

Jeff Burton is excited to be considered one of racing's best young drivers.

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

The younger of two racing brothers, Jeff Burton is on the verge of becoming one of the sport's superstars.

After winning rookie-of-the-year honors in 1994, while driving for the Stavola Brothers, Burton's career took a big upswing in 1996 when he signed with Jack Roush. The 1997 season saw his first three victories, and he has followed up with two this season.

HOMETOWN: Born and raised in South Boston, Va., resides in Cornelius, N.C.

AGE: 31

WIFE: Kim

CHILD: Kimberle "Paige" (3).

CAR: No. 99, Exide Batteries Ford Taurus, owned by Robert Corn (Roush Racing).

RECORD: 154 starts, 1 pole, 5 wins, 39 top-five finishes, 57 top 10s.

FIRSTS: Start (July 11, 1993, at New Hampshire), pole (Aug. 16, 1996, at Michigan), win (April 6, 1997, at Texas).

HOW WOULD YOU RATE THIS SEASON? "It's been a so-so first third and good from that point on. We got out of the gate slow, and things just weren't going the way we hoped they would go. We weren't having great pit stops, I was getting in some wrecks, and we weren't running as well as we thought we should...."

We had a meeting at California, a real heart-to-heart meeting, and since that point it's been really good.... I think we've been the third-best team on the Winston Cup circuit since California."

HOW DOES IT FEEL TO BE CONSIDERED ONE OF THE SPORT'S TOP YOUNG DRIVERS? "I'm excited about it. The success of this year doesn't guarantee any success for the future. The only thing it means is that we have a foundation to build on. Every team in the garage is working to get better."

IS THERE ANYTHING IN PARTICULAR YOU'VE LEARNED THIS YEAR? "I've learned a lot about myself. It's been a hard year, but at the same time it's been a good year. There have been more positives than negatives; it's just my outlook on things that I look more at the negatives. If they're positive, we don't need to fix them, and if they're negative, we need to."

TRIVIA

1. Who was the first Busch Grand National champion?
2. What Truck Series champion was also a two-time champion on the NASCAR Featherlite Southwest Tour?

Who's Not? Jeff Gordon never finished outside the top 10 in the final 20 races.

WHO'S NOT? Kyle Petty did not finish in the top 15 in the season's final 11 races.

AROUND THE GARAGE

NASCAR makes changes in rules governing the NAPA 500

By Monte Dutton

NASCAR This Week

HAMPTON, Ga. — With Jeff Gordon's third Winston Cup championship tucked away, NASCAR officials moved swiftly on Nov. 2 to change the rules governing the season's final race at Atlanta Motor Speedway.

The changes, rumored for several weeks, were made to make the cars more stable in the NAPA 500. Apparently the governing body waited until after Gordon's victory at Rockingham so as not to be accused of altering the balance of competition with the championship still on the line. The Chevrolet Monte Carlo will now be required to maintain a rear-spoiler size of 6.5 inches in height (up from 5) and 57 inches in width. The Pontiac Grand Prix's spoiler height will be 6.875 inches up from 3.375, also with a 57-inch width. The Ford Taurus' spoiler will be 6.25 inches (up from 4.75) with a width of 55 inches.

All models will be required to have a 3.5-inch frontal ground clearance, a reduction of 1.5 inches on Fords and Chevrolets and 1.125 inches on Pontiacs. The rear-spoiler angle on all models will be a minimum of 65 degrees.

FORDS ARE O.K. AFTER ALL: Darrell Waltrip, the great nemesis of Fords, will drive one in the exhibition Nov. 22 in Japan.

With Dale Jarrett undergoing post-season gall bladder surgery, Waltrip, who last drove a Ford in 1973, will do the substitute-driver honors. Waltrip actually began his career driving a Mercury in 1972. He also has a rich background in No. 88, Jarrett's number. With the old DiGard team, Waltrip won 26 races driving No. 88 from 1975 through 1980.

Robert Yates, owner of Jarrett's car, was engine builder at DiGard in the 1970s, and Buddy Parron, father of Jarrett crew chief Todd Parron, was the crew chief.

THROUGH NO FALK OF

HIS OWN: Joe Falk, who has persevered and done surprisingly well as a car owner with little sponsorship, vows not to close down his shop.

"Everybody keeps coming up wanting to know if this is the last race for LJ Racing," said Falk. "We're definitely going to be racing next year. Whether we're racing a limited schedule or whatever, we will be racing, and we will be in Daytona ready to kick butt."

Kevin Lepage, Tom Kendall, Andy Hillenburg, Morgan Shepherd and Todd Bodine have all taken their turns in the No. 91 Chevrolet.

CREW OF THE WEEK

■ OK, so it's two crews. Car owner Richard Childress had both his Chevys, No. 31 Mike Skinner and No. 3 Dale Earnhardt, pit for only two tires when most were taking on four. That put Skinner first and Earnhardt second. Although the strategy ultimately backfired — Skinner faded to ninth, Earnhardt to 13th — it was worth a try.

The rich history of NASCAR Dale Jarrett, so often a victim of bad luck during the current Winston Cup season, was the beneficiary of good fortune when the Busch Grand National series raced for the first time at Homestead Motorsports Complex in 1995. Everyone in front of Jarrett, including leader Hermie Sadler and Larry Pearson, crashed at the end, allowing Jarrett to capture the victory.

Glades Day 33 - Moore Haven 28

By Trey Alava

There were only seconds left in the fourth quarter, the score was Glades Day 33 - Moore Haven 28, and the Terriers were close to the goal. Terrier quarterback, Daniel Coke decided that this was it, he attempted a pass to take the win, but the ball headed straight for the arms of Gator defensive back, Jake Davis. The game was over with much wanted victory by the Gators.

The Gators started off the game with a 56 yard touchdown made by junior tailback James Holman. Two other touchdowns were made by Holman in the first quarter giving the Gators 18 points. The score at half-time was 18-22. The Gators were down by 4.

Unfortunately the Terriers were able to get by once more with a touchdown, the Gators were now down by 10 points, the score was 28-18. There was one minute and fifteen seconds left in the 3rd quarter when Glades Day's junior line backer, Jeremy Fountain, recovered a fumble from the Terriers to give the Gators possession going into the fourth quarter. They were down by ten, and the fourth quarter was the last chance that the Gators had to reclaim the game for the win.

Late in the fourth quarter, Gator senior running back, Boo Baez, sneaked by with a touchdown and seven more points on the scoreboard. There were only minutes left when junior tailback, James Holman, who ran 207 yards on 38 carries that night, ran for a touchdown and a two point conversion giving the Gators the lead with a 33-28 score. The game ended with a

Gator interception at the goal with only seconds left. The Gators came back to win in the fourth quarter from being down by ten points. This game by far was one of the finest played by the Gators. The Gators are scheduled to play Key West next Friday at Glades Day. Coach Walker says that Key West has a very good team and that nothing is getting easier for the Gators. He also said that they are mainly getting ready for their upcoming

Raiders roll over Pope John Paul, 21-7

By Jennie M. Sears
Staff Reporter

According to Raider coach Milton Watson, the Raiders did not put out all they had against Pope John Paul last Friday night.

After Friday's game Watson told his team, "If you bring this to Pahokee next week, you're going to get your butts kicked."

"I thought our heads were elsewhere," Watson explained afterward. "We weren't focused. We didn't tackle well. We dropped a lot of balls, our backs didn't find the hole, we fumbled the football."

Even if they didn't play well the Raiders still took control of the game when quarterback Jerry Campbell snuck through for a yard touchdown giving Glades Central the lead 21-7.

Reggie Vickers had a great game. He had six passes for four touchdowns and 215 yards against Olympic Heights and had five catches for a touchdown and 152 yards.

The Raiders also had a 78-yard punt return for a TD by Vickers.

Glades Central held only a 7-0 lead at half time, but by the fourth quarter it was over for Pope John Paul.

Fishing with Walt Reynolds

By Walt Reynolds

We will remember this past week as the "Mitch Storm Week" for several years to come.

With almost 10 inches of rain around the lake, it serves to say it is a little wet here on the lake. The fresh water will be good for the lake in most areas though some areas may suffer from very poor water quality due to the runoff from agriculture areas.

One thing for sure is that Thursday was not a good day to be on the water with the high winds and heavy rains. I fished the north end out of the Harney Pond area on Friday and found that the northwest wind had cleaned up some of that area to rather good fishing conditions. The main lake is quite muddy and dirty from the wind and the South Bay area took a pretty good pounding from the wind during the storm.

We have a couple of national tournaments coming up in the next few weeks. Jerry Ryhn's Fisherman's Bass Circuit will be here the weekend before Thanksgiving and the next week marks the beginning of the BassMasters Invitational out of Okaloosa.

Needless to say, there will be a lot of out of town fishermen around in the course of this month. That means wall-to-wall Chevy Suburbans and Ranger bass boats everywhere. It will be nice to see the town full of people after a rather hot and slow summer season.

Bass are hitting a Gambler 10" June Bug worm and a Flappin' Shad is working well over the heavy grass, fished without any weight other than a nail stuck inside the body.

Those of you who use the Internet can find their products at www.gambler.bang.com.

A few fish are being caught in open water on Ninja spinner baits and Rattle Traps.

With the cooler water temperatures it won't be long before we will start seeing some good catches of Crappie come in also.

To all a good bite...
